In the News: Breast Augmentation

Did you know that breast augmentation remains the number one cosmetic surgical procedure performed in the United States in 2008? In over 10 million surgical procedures performed last year, as reported by the American Society for Aesthetic Plastic Surgery, breast augmentation remains the leader. There has been a nearly fourfold increase in the number of breast augmentation procedures performed in 2008 compared to 1997. Improved results, higher safety ratings, and the use of silicone gel breast implants have been instrumental in this increase. More than 90% of Dr. Cristina Keusch's patients are now choosing silicone gel breast implants over saline implants for their breast augmentation procedure.

Facts on Fraxel®

"I have been so pleased with my Fraxel re:pair treatment, that I have decided to hold off on a facelift for a few more years." -- Patient Testimonial, June 2009

In addition to improving skin texture, and reversing signs of sun damage, the Fraxel re:pair laser actually tightens tissue! In some cases, results can be so dramatic that it may postpone the need for formal facial lifting through a traditional facelift. In other cases, the Fraxel re:pair laser may be combined with face lifting surgery for further contouring of specific areas.

Fraxel re:pair CO2 laser can be performed with local anesthesia and oral medications in most cases. This will lessen the cost of the procedure. Dr. Cristina Keusch typically recommends sedation or general anesthesia when more extensive areas are to be treated. Since the Fraxel re:pair laser uses fractionated technology, it may be used beyond the face to include treatments of the neck, chest, and extremities. Improved texture, tone, and color is expected.
