

CRISTINA FREXES KEUSCH, M.D.

Dr. Cristina Keusch had planned to follow in the footsteps of her father and grandfather, who were both highly regarded general surgeons. Then, while attending the Johns Hopkins School of Medicine, she met the chief of plastic surgery, and her career took a new path.

"As soon as I heard my first lecture in plastic surgery, I knew that's what I wanted to do," says Dr. Keusch, who has been practicing in Boca Raton since 1990. "I enjoy the diversity and the fact that every case is different and creative."

There is also, Dr. Keusch says, a strong sense of satisfaction that comes with having an impact on the lives of her patients.

"I love being able to make people feel better about themselves," she says. "It's incredible when a person with a poor self-image changes into someone with confidence and someone who feels good about themselves."

Known for her ability to provide patients with a natural-looking result, Dr. Keusch has continued to evolve her practice to focus on three main areas of cosmetic surgery. About a third of the practice is dedicated to breast procedures, including augmentations, reductions and lifts, while another third is focused on body contouring. Facial rejuvenation, including facelifts and neck contouring, are also important parts of the practice. In addition, her practice includes a state-of-the-art skin care center.

Dr. Keusch has narrowed the scope of the procedures she performs in an effort to offer excellence and a higher level of expertise. She believes that plastic surgery is an ever-changing specialty with innovations and evolving techniques.

While harnessing the latest technology and staying abreast of the advances in her field, Dr. Keusch continues to blend these advances with her many years of experience and well-established techniques. In addition to technical excellence, the values of honesty and integrity passed on to her from generation to generation have served her patients well.

"It's incredible when a person with a poor self-image changes into someone with confidence and someone who feels good about themselves."
