BREAKING NEWS in THE BEAUTY BIZ!

Breast Augmentation: Silicone & Saline Choices

Nine months have passed since the Food and Drug Administration (FDA) approved the use of silicone breast implants in the United States. In this time, Boca Raton Plastic Surgery Center has observed a vast amount of interest in silicone implants.

"This is a great era for American women and the plastic surgeons who care for them," said Dr. Cristina Keusch. "I am pleased to offer my patients both options so they are able to make informed choices about their health care."

As you consider breast augmentation either for aesthetic enhancement or for reconstructive purposes, keep in mind that it's not as black-and-white as silicone "good" or saline "bad"; rather, there are upsides and downsides to both. Research is key to determine what's best for you.

Silicone

- More natural look and feel than saline implants because silicone gel has a texture that is similar to breast tissue.
- Silicone implants are very good for women who do not have a lot of soft tissue coverage on their breasts.
- Silicone products have now been determined to be safe and effective

Saline

- An advantage of saline breast implants is that if one happens to rupture, the saline (salt solution) is absorbed by the body. The diagnosis and treatment of a saline rupture is relatively straightforward.
- Saline has been shown to be very effective and produce satisfactory results
- A disadvantage is that saline implants are more likely to show ripples in the implant or the implant itself may appear less natural in small-breasted or reconstructive patients.

and overall health of the skin. It combines the latest in red and blue light rejuvenation therapies, lymphatic drainage and micro-current with a highly beneficial vitamin exfoliation for dramatic results that improve the skin's health and appearance after the first treatment.
